

shop around

Scenario 13

John and Helen place an order for bedroom units and are told it will take about six weeks to deliver. They are amazed when asked for the full payment in advance, as they had expected only to have to pay a deposit.

Can shops charge the full price in advance in circumstances like this?

